Dear Colleague:

It is with a great sense of pride and pleasure that I welcome you to another exciting year in the Westford Public Schools. Our reputation as an excellent school system is a direct result of the outstanding contributions of our staff. If you recently have joined our educational community, I welcome you into a highly professional, strongly supportive learning environment in which the needs of children come first in our thoughts and actions.

This employee handbook has been developed to provide information on many personnel and operational issues. The contents characterize the caring, respectful culture for which we are known. With your help, this atmosphere will continue through collaborative, respectful conversations with colleagues and students. The handbook reflects federal and state statutes as well as the policies and regulations of the Westford Public Schools. Updates that correspond to policies or operating procedures will occur from time to time. This handbook is not intended to take the place of any collective bargaining agreement, and is consistent with current state, federal and school committee policies.

I want to sincerely thank you for taking the time to read and understand the contents of this document. Our objective is to bring organizational consistency to the school district. With this strong foundation, we can devote the majority of our time to our true mission and passion: developing the minds and lives of our students.

Finally, I wish to thank the members of the Employee Handbook Committee. The endless hours devoted to this handbook have produced a document that reflects great pride in our school system and a deep respect for our core values. Thank you for a job well done.

Sincerely,

Everett V. Olsen, Jr.,
Superintendent of Schools

Shaping the future one child at a time.

Payroll Calendar

All school employees are paid on a bi-weekly basis. The number of payroll periods is subject to contractual language. Payroll checks are sent to the employees' corresponding buildings when school is in session. All checks will be mailed when school buildings are closed for vacations, holidays, and inclement weather. Religious Expressions

Official Neutrality Regarding Religious Activity

Teachers and school administrators, when acting in those capacities, are representatives of the state and are prohibited by the establishment clause from soliciting or encouraging religious activity, and from participating in such activity with students. Teachers and administrators also are prohibited from discouraging activity because of its religious content, and from soliciting or encouraging antireligious activity

Teaching about Religion

Public schools may not provide religious instruction, but they may teach about religion, including the Bible or other scripture: the history of religion, comparative religion, the Bible (or other scripture)-as-literature, and the role of religion in the history of the United States and other countries all are permissible public school subjects. Similarly, it is permissible to consider religious influences on art, music, literature, and social studies. Although public schools may teach about religious holidays, including their religious aspects, and may celebrate the secular aspects of holidays, schools may not observe holidays as religious events or promote such observances by students.

Teaching Values

Though schools must be neutral with respect to religion, they may play an active role with respect to teaching civic values and virtue, and the moral code that holds us together as a community.

The fact that some of these values are held also by religions does not make it unlawful to teach them in school.

Controversial Issues in the Classroom

The presentation and discussion of controversial issues in the classroom should be on an informative basis. The teachers must guard against giving their personal opinions on sectarian or political questions or any other controversial issues until the students have had the opportunity to find, collect, and assemble factual material on the subject; to interpret the data without prejudice; to reconsider assumptions and claims; and to reach their own conclusions. By refraining from expressing personal views before and during the period of research and study, the teacher is encouraging the students to search after truth and to think for themselves. The development of an ability to meet issues without prejudice and to withhold judgments while facts are being collected, assembled, weighed, and relationships seen before drawing inferences or conclusions, is among the most valuable outcomes of a free educational system.

Discipline

The primary goal of our disciplinary policies and procedures is to ensure that the student develops a sense of responsibility for his/her own actions. If we accept the premise that we are preparing students to take their own place in adult life, then we must also prepare them for the reality that the adult world does not excuse irresponsibility, forgetfulness, or poor judgment; nor does it look with favor on the individual who does not acknowledge the rights of others. Disciplinary policy should be viewed as a vehicle through which self-discipline is developed. Sending students to the office for disciplinary purposes should be held to an absolute minimum. However, staff members will report to building administrators any student behavior that they feel may be drug or alcohol induced. The use of drugs or the consumption of any alcoholic beverage on school property or at school functions is prohibited. Under no condition is a student to be stationed in the corridor for disciplinary reasons.
